WRECKING WORK STARTS MONDAY ON OLD BRIDGE

Bay - Pass Area Realizes Its Dream

Full-sized wrecking work will begin on the old Bay St. Louis Bridge Monday, and the entire job will take four to five months. As Merritt-Chapman & Scott prepared to desert its Henderson Point headquarters after opening the new bridge, Cayuga Wrecking Co. move into the offices to start taking down the old structure. Louis Pachoud will direct the operations, employing about 35 men.

The State Highway Department actually started removing the old asphalt topping from the old bridge to help in the construction of approaches for the new bridge. The old asphalt will be used to support the shoulder on the Bay St. Louis side of the bridge near the turn when the old highway joins the new.

When this is completed, Cayuga takes over. Part of the wrecking procedure will involve blowing up concrete piers. It will be three or four weeks before this phase is reached.

Meanwhile, the new bridge—so long sought—was a reality. It took in $2,300 in tolls the first 24 hours. The first car through at midnight Saturday was a Louisiana car driven by a man with an eye to history.

Early in the evening he pulled up to the Pass Christian toll gate and began waiting. He was determined to be first through. And he was—after getting a souvenir receipt for his quarter.

Lights were turned on Monday night.

There's still a bumpy stretch of incomplete approach road on the Pass side, and it will be two or three weeks more before this is done.

Perhaps the most interesting fact in the opening is the complete acceptance of the toll. A reporter watching cars whiz through Sunday heard driver after driver compliment men on the toll stations, and many volunteered "It's worth the money to get rid of that old trap."

These Sunday drivers were greeted by souvenir maps of the State of Mississippi. Some 10,000 were given out between 7 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday. Four shifts worked under the Lions Club.

First came the Lions' contingent—Mayor John Scaife, Commissioner Cyril Glover, John Damborino and Russell Chapman. Then came a quartet of girls—Irma Joan Lee, June Breath, Betty Colson and Patsy Lusich. Boys were next—William Reese, Jerry Bienvenus and Keith Tonkel. Then came Warren Carver and Emile

Piazza, followed by Carol Carver, Cherrie Green, Jan Hill and Mary Ellen Green.

The American Legion completed the job with John Rutherford, Charles Byrd, Lucile Kidd, Frank Taconi, Leroy Luke, Ed Arceneux, Gordon Romanoff, Clarence Ladner and Warren Bucher. Lions President Cliff Parke directed the distribution.

As the fanfare of the ceremony faded, there was one permanent reminder—the historical marker presented by the Bay-Waveland Garden Club.

Placed on the neutral ground on the Bay St. Louis side, it reads: "Organized as Shieldsboro in 1851—Renamed for Bay Explored by Iberville on the Birthday of Louis XIV in 1699—Town was built on the site of former Indian village Chicpoula."

The marker was covered with a replica of the original flag which flew over what is now Bay St. Louis and unveiled by Irma Joan Lee. The Garden Club members also served as hostesses to the visitors at the post-dedication party at the Hotel Reed.

An example of the artistry may be found on Page One of Section Two in today's Echo. The club also dedicated the speakers stand.

Old Law May Force L&N To Stop At Bay Service Criticized At Hearing

The Commission Council of Bay St. Louis plans to invoke an unused statute on the Mississippi law books to force the Louisville and Nashville railroad to halt its fleet steamliner, the Hummingbird, here.

This announcement came from Mayor John Scaife at an open hearing Wednesday with townspeople and L. & N. officials.

The law, which appears in the Mississippi Code of 1952, states that all passenger trains must stop at the county seat if that town has a depot.

However, railroad Superintendent M. R. Black, who appeared at the meeting, said that he did not think the law would apply.

"I hope you won't force us to do this," Black said. "If I remember correctly, however, I think the only case ever tried under this law, in 1903, received only an opinion. That was, that this law applied only if the service was inadequate and if the stop was conditional."

A train which stops conditionally here would probably halt only to discharge passengers from New Orleans. It won't pick up. Conditions for stopping vary with the area.

After reading letters from local civic groups complaining about the poor service of the L. & N. after it removed three commuter trains, Mayor Scaife gave the floor to Black.

Black said Bay St. Louis is one of the best served towns in the area.

One of the more important controversies centered around the daily need of the mail clerks working in New Orleans and living in Bay St. Louis. Black offered to make a special compromise for this group, halting Train No. 37, to New Orleans, when Train No. 1 was late.

Gordon Romanoff and J. R. Shadin, both mail clerks, declined this offer when they learned other citizens of the town could not have the same privilege.

Black said "There is no use for commuter trains." But voicing their objection to this were Mrs. E. C. Samuels, L. E. Kenney, George Allison and others. All agreed that there was a real need in a resort town for full train service.

The Mayor closed the meeting by saying the commission council will take action in accordance with the law books. "We will pass a resolution at an early date notifying the railroad that we expect them to obey the statute and stop all of their passenger trains here," he said.

Decision On Zoning Law In A Month; Henderson Point Considers Action

L. C. Ladner New Head of Kiln School

L. C. Ladner has been appointed the new superintendent of Kiln School to replace W. M. Simmons, who resigned last week.

Mr. Ladner has served schools in Harrison and Pearl River County and goes to Kiln from Thomas School in Pearl River.

Mr. Simmons bitterly protested action of his trustees in his letter to E. E. Breland, county superintendent of Education. Mr. Breland said, however, he doubted the matter would call for any investigation.

Mr. Simmons' letter of resignation: Mr. E. E. Breland, County Superintendent of Education, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. Dear Mr. Breland:

As you know, I requested a two-year contract from the Board of Trustees of Kiln Consolidated School. This request was refused by the Board of Trustees and no plausible excuse was given by them. It is my understanding that a two-year contract was offered to another person as an inducement to come to Kiln School; and yet, a two-year contract was not granted to me as an inducement to stay at Kiln School.

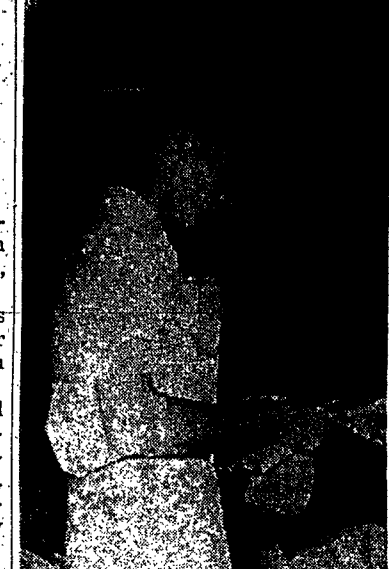

I think you are familiar with the fact that a petition was signed by a majority of the patrons of Kiln School requesting that I be granted a two-year contract, and that this petition was ignored by the Board of Trustees.

At the end of the past school year, I recommended that certain teachers be given a contract by this Board and my recommendations were ignored, with the result that qualified and efficient teachers were dismissed contrary to my recommendation.

This Board of Trustees held meetings in secret when I think that my presence was necessary for the best interest of the school.

I was directed to purchase school supplies at only one place without any regard for the lowest bid having been obtained.

In view of the above mentioned facts, and the lack of cooperation, I feel that it is to the interest of

Driveless Car Causes Pass Crash

A 1946 Plymouth automobile was damaged to the extent of approximately $600 Tuesday around 8 p. m. at Pass Christian.

An improperly braked car, owned by Mrs. Catherine Martinovich of Hattiesburg and parked in a driveway at 1012 West Beach, careened down-grade and crashed into the car driven by Norman Gaitor, an army private stationed at the Fitzsimmons hospital in Denver. Gaitor was returning from Miami with his wife.

All persons concerned, the school, and the community in general, I resign my position as Superintendent of Kiln School since it is apparent to me that there would be some friction between the Board and my administration during the coming year.

I hereby submit this as my resignation to become effective August 1, 1953, and request that I be released from my contract.

Respectfully submitted,
W. M. Simmons

The Bay St. Louis Commission Council hope to make decision within a month on the controversial zoning ordinance.

Meanwhile, the same fight was shaping up at Henderson Point on the other side of the bridge. A meeting was held last night to organize the fight to zone the Point against commercial businesses.

A lively public hearing was conducted by the Bay St. Louis council Monday. Testimony was overwhelming in favor of the ordinance, but those against it are continuing their fight.

They started with a petition of 358 signatures, and plan to collect more in the hopes of attaining the majority of registered voters. W. W. Weber, one of those against the ordinance, had urged a general election to let the Bay St. Louis voters decide the issue.

However, there has been no further action on his proposal. At Henderson Point, plans indicate the Henderson Point Heights Association will join with the newly formed Pass Christian Improvement Association for a zoning law. W. S. Leake, president of the Henderson Point group, has just returned to town but plans to investigate the zoning problem immediately. John M. Parker Jr., president of the Improvement Association, has invited the Point Group to join.

The Bay St. Louis hearing was lively.

Mayor Scaife opened the hearing by explaining it was not an official meeting of the council, but merely an unofficial hearing to sound out public opinion. He then called for comment against the ordinance.

Mrs. Mark Carmichael, editor of The Light, was first to speak. "We object to the ordinance," she said, "because it is unwise, unjust and unconstitutional. It is poorly and loosely drawn and shows favoritism."

She said commercialism on the beach at the bridge would mean several million dollars in revenue and several hundred jobs in the next few years.

W. W. Weber then presented a petition, signed by 358 persons, opposing the zoning ordinance as it is now written. He made it plain, he favored eventual comprehensive zoning but not this particular ordinance.

The petition objected to the ordinance on these grounds:

1. It is unconstitutional.
2. It is against the best interests of the people.
3. It hampers the development of business.
4. It prohibits the development of the new Highway 90 and the adjoining bridge area.

"This ordinance, if passed, would be instead of the comprehensive zoning law, and would leave the city in worse shape than we got it from the Indians," Weber said.

"Only 80 qualified voters signed the original petition, so we feel the ordinance is unconstitutional," he continued. "This law would prohibit schools, churches, libraries and boarding houses—it would permit only one and two family dwellings."

Then came those in favor of the zoning law. They were many—by far the majority of the crowd attending the hearing, as both a show of hands and the applause proved.

Excerpts from the statements:

Roger Boh—"George Smith, who wrote the law, is familiar with zoning laws and the ordinance is constitutional. We are still in favor of comprehensive zoning, but this is a stopgap we need now."

Mrs. Paul Miller—"I hope to raise my children here. And if I were touring, I'd much rather take my children a little off the highway to the beach. We don't want penny catching businesses."

E. P. Kirkpatrick—"I suggest a vote of those present to see how many who signed the anti-zoning petition followed through."

Mayor Scaife said there was no point in such a vote, but those for the ordinance stood anyway and showed themselves as the great majority present.

Mrs. E. C. Samuel—"I'm from Waveland, but what effects the Bay effects Waveland. If you fail to pass this ordinance, comprehensive zoning is lost."

Joseph Schaff—"Everyone here gets money indirectly from New Orleans. I understand there's a new sub-division of 500 homes. They'll try to sell those homes to people in New Orleans to bring their families here. The little tourist court money to be left here overnight is not much compared to what New Orleans people spend here."

Mrs. Odette Wittlesberger—"I've lived in Bay St. Louis for nine years - and not on the beach. But I'm interested in a zoning ordinance which will make a place for people to live, not a place for penny-catching business."

Mrs. D. Martinez—"I'm one of the newcomers, and I'm enjoying it immensely. What attracted me was no commercialism on the beach. Pass Christian, Gulfport and Biloxi have been ruined by commercialism."

Dick Shadoin—"I understand that even if the zoning law does not pass, there will be restrictions."

Max Kohler—"I came to your fair city 45 years ago. I appreciated most the wide open spaces. It's what you have to offer. At most, anybody can get petitions signed by not telling the other side of the story."

Paul Gaudet—"The group I represent wants comprehensive zoning, and realize this ordinance is a stopgap. . . . We discussed this original ordinance with the council and made changes to meet their objects. There were 1,500 votes in the last election, and only 358 in this petition against us."

O. W. Delph—"We have a really magnificent view from the bridge. The city could cultivate it. You'd be surprised how many Bay St. Louis businessmen are for this ordinance."

Mrs. E. C. Sullivan—"We're New Orleans people. I spent my childhood at Biloxi. But when my husband got out of the service and we returned to take a look at Biloxi, we didn't buy. We bought at the Bay. Biloxi has lost its charm."

Mrs. W. W. Balter—"The council was elected by the people. It's up to the council to make the decision."

Herbert Wise—"The council runs the city of New Orleans. The council should run the City of Bay St. Louis."

Mrs. Frances Richardson—"I've been here seven years. What am I going to do with my ground on the highway? Eat it?"

She was assured her ground is not covered by the ordinance. Weber returned to the floor several times for rebuttal.

"Why has business always been discouraged in Bay St. Louis?" he asked. "Several little factories came here and finally disappeared because they didn't have cooperation."

"The council can specify the type of buildings, so that's no problem, whatever for zoning."

"What's more important—a place to live or a place for a livelihood?"

"With the Korean war over, many folks who work on war jobs in New Orleans may be out of work. Why not create a situation to utilize these talents and people?"

Weber called for a general election to decide the issue.

$50 Fine For Breaking Gas Meter Lock

Mayor John Scaife fined Vester Ladner $50 in the Mayor's Court Tuesday after finding him guilty of using city gas without the consent of the natural gas division.

Defense council Cornelius Ladner, brother of the defendant, announced that he would appeal the decision of the circuit court. Vester Ladner, according to city officials, had removed the lock off of his city gas meter after it was closed because of non-payment of bills. The meter was located at 212 Ballentine St.

The lively trial in which the defense counsel often disagreed with the court, was believed to be the first of its kind in this city.

Young Gators Gander Pass

Several young alligators, approximately two feet in length, were sighted near the location of the new well in Pass Christian. One of the alligators turned over to Mayor Hurrey, was placed for a while in a tub at the Pass Christian where it was viewed by many wondering citizens and wide-eyed children.

Bishop Brooks Laid To Rest At Waveland

Burial for Bishop Robert N. Brooks, resident Bishop of the New Orleans area, the Methodist Church, central district, who died Sunday, at Waveland was held at Gulfside Chapel in Waveland Thursday at 4:30 P. M.

Funeral services were held Thursday at 1 P. M. at the Mount Zion Methodist Church in New Orleans. Previous to the funeral the body was in state at the Church Wednesday night.

According to Dr. Robert F. Harrington, area secretary the 28 superintendents of the area were named as honorary pallbearers for the Negro cleric.

Bishop Brooks was elected to his bishopry in 1944. A native of North Carolina, he attended Gammon Theological Seminary at Atlanta, Ga., Northwestern University of Evanston, Ill., and Oxford University of England.

He moved to New Orleans in 1936 and edited the Southwestern Christian Advocate. He also established the Lafon Old Folks Home and the People's Methodist community center, both of New Orleans.

Bishop Brooks, who had as one of his residents a home in Waveland near the Gulfside Asylum, was survived by his widow and several brothers.

The new Hancock County library which opened last week received a worthy tribute when Mr. John Hall Jacobs, head of the New Orleans library called it "a great asset in reaching more and more people."

Mr. Jacobs, who visited the library at its opening, indicated his strong approval of the new facilities in a letter to Mrs. Caroline Dale Sneedecker.

"I was thrilled with the library," Mr. Jacobs wrote. "The building will be a great asset in reaching more and more people, and the new books are wonderful. There are some many fine ones in the collection, and though we are told not to covet, I could not help coveting them for the New Orleans Public Library collection."

Going to Town in Mississippi

The record-breaking job your telephone company has done since 1945 to expand and improve Mississippi's rural telephone system has made life lots easier for a large part of our farm population. For them, telephoning takes the place of many a trip to town or around the neighborhood.

With four times as many rural telephones today as there were seven years ago, every rural customer can call more friends and relatives and be called by more of them.

And you can depend on it that your telephone company will go right on working and building to make your telephone still more valuable - Remember this, too - your telephone service has gone up less in price than most things you buy.

THRASH CONTINUES TOUR OF MID-WEST

(Another report has been received from Joe Thrash, the Minnesota Exchange 4-H Member of Sellers.)

(By JOE THRASH)
While I was on the first farm that I visited, I helped spray potatoes and haul in hay. In fact I only did enough to keep up my exercise.

The people around the neighborhood where I first stayed were German. I went to church with them on Sunday, July 12th. They belong to the Lutheran Church and every other Sunday they still have services in German.

On July 14th, we came from the various homes where we stayed and met in Rochester. Before leaving Rochester we visited the Mayo Clinic. The doors and ceilings were designed with hand carving. Then we visited the Rochester Dairy owned by Co-operate farmers. It is one of the three largest in the world. We were given a can of milk and pencil as souvenirs from the dairy.

On July 15th we visited Charlie McArthur's Shorthorn Farm where many champions and National winners have been raised. We visited a flax plant where they prepared the straw to be sent off to make cigarette papers, etc. They use the flax seed for oil in paints, varnish, etc.

We also visited a Federal game park where they raise many pheasants. We went swimming in Lake Shetek and we all almost froze. We have had many picnics, lunches, and light refreshments all through the day.

On the sixteenth we visited the pipestone quarries and a guide showed us around. They had Indians there carving trinkets out of the pipestone. They gave us some trinkets as souvenirs. Then we visited a granite mine in South Dakota and were given a piece of polished granite as a souvenir. We also visited a school of agriculture in Morris where we saw four purchase horses each of which weighed more than a ton. We spent the night in homes.

On the seventh we met with 4-Hers from North and South Dakota and had a picnic lunch. We were each presented with a scrapbook from the Stevens County 4-Hers. Then we went into Fergus Falls where we were entertained with a square dance. After the dance and supper, we dispersed to homes in various counties for a three-day stop.

On the eighteenth I was in the home of Mr. Paulson. That night they had their 4-H Club meeting here and I was asked to make a winner roast.

On the eighteenth I helped haul some corn to be crushed. On the nineteenth I went to a bible school picnic and toured the county (west of Ottertail). I saw Battle Lake, and many others. Battle Lake was named after a fierce war between the tribes that had been fought there.

July 20th I slept until 8:30 a. m., got up and helped do some odd jobs around the farm. That night we attended a 4-H Junior Leaders meeting in Fergus Falls. The club there is very active.

On July 21st, we left Fergus Falls at 9:45 a. m. and visited a potato farm where the rows were one half mile long. Then we visited a sugar beet factory. We also were guests of the Rotary Club at the Red River. They gave us a standing invitation to be their guests. Twice that day we were served light refreshments.

Finally we reached Croopston where we were served supper and entertained by a square dance, after which we were dispersed to different homes in Polk County for the night.

July 22nd, we left Croopston at 8:30 a. m. we arrived in Bemidji at 11:00 a. m. and saw a statue of Paul Bunyon and Babe, his Blue

Ox. We visited a natural history museum. We were served a picnic lunch by the County 4-H Leaders Federation. We arrived at Itasca State Park at 3:00 p. m. We toured the Park and had a ceremony at the source of the Mississippi River. Here we crossed the Mississippi River on foot.

We were entertained at a steak supper. After which we were shown a movie. We spent the night in Itasca. The park is seven miles square. The record high temperature is 104 degrees. The record low is 48 degrees.

July 23rd, we had breakfast at the park and a very touching service in the preachers grove. After some of us had read some inspiring words, the girls quartet sang "Talented Lord Jesus," as the wind played music with the needles of the hugh pines. It was something to remember for ever. We were guests of 4-H Leaders at Grand Rapids. We made a radio broadcast there. We arrived at Hibbing at 3:00 p. m. and visited the Iron mines. The average purity is 52%. They use 50 ton trucks for hauling. We had supper in Saint Louis County with a Senator and the Hibbing Chamber of Commerce as hosts. We arrived in Duluth at 4:45 p. m. where we spent the night in tourist cabins.

July 24th, we drove on the skyline view of Duluth, the second largest shipping port in the United States. We traveled to Two Harbors, the farthest north of our entire trip. We were then carried on private yachts out on Lake Superior. It was 38 degrees and we almost froze. We were served a picnic supper and sent to homes for the night.

July 25th, I toured the community where I spent the night. We visited a milk farm where they had some white milk. The most man had gotten for one pelt is $105. He said they had sold for as much as $300.00. We met the bus at 1:20 p. m. and journeyed to Lake Esquagama, where their state 4-H Camp is located. They won the money to build the camp by winning the Sears award to the county which had done the most outstanding work in the United States. We were entertained by a square dance that night and given souvenirs.

July 26th, we had church services on the banks of beautiful Lake Esquagama. Then we went to Crow Wing County where we met the delegates from Minnesota, who came to Mississippi last year.

We had lunch and supper there and played many competitive games. We arrived in Saint Paul at 9:45 p. m. where we spent the night on the University campus.

July 27th, we made a television appearance and also a radio broadcast from Minneapolis. They both went over well. One boy who was from Tupelo, Mississippi and in the Army here, got so homesick when he saw some of our girls making hushpuppies on T. V., that he looked us up to talk with us. We met some guys from India and the Netherlands. Their trip is sponsored by the Ford Foundation. We visited the Minnesota Star and Tribune, the fifth largest paper in the United States.

We are to meet the Governor of Minnesota today. I am having a grand time. Don't forget to mention my appreciation to Kraft Foods Company, Coast Electric, Hancock Bank and Merchants Bank and Trust Company.

Yes, look "way back" . . . 50 miles, 100 miles or perhaps, several times that distance. Look deep into the swamplands, over the rolling hills and across the open plains . . . and you'll find the wells which are the source of the natural gas you use in your home.

There's more natural gas out there, too. The natural gas industry will bring in additional wells and discover new fields, so long as gas sells at prices sufficient to provide the incentive to find, produce, transport and distribute this matchless fuel.

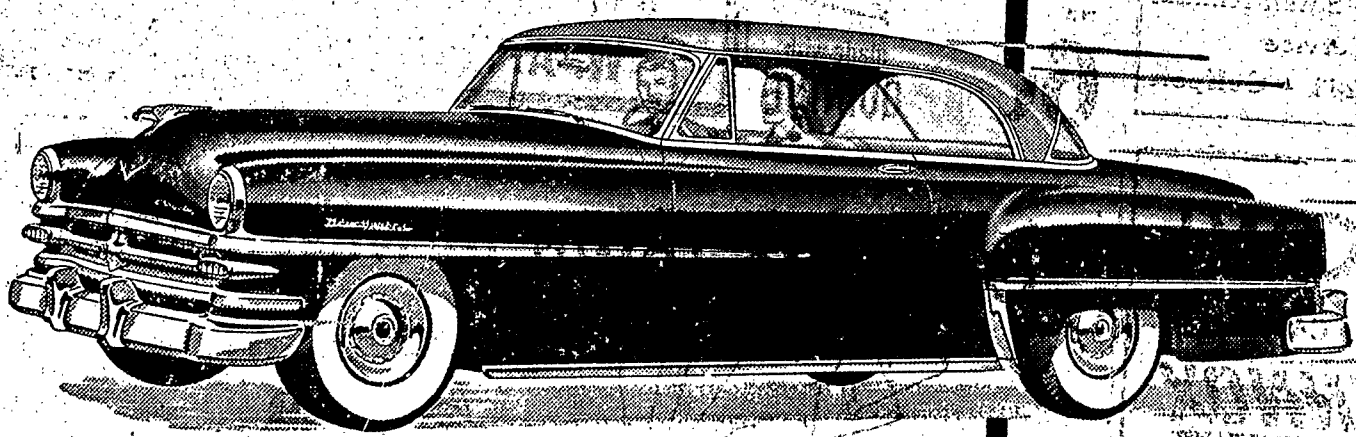

When you consider the thousands of workers and the millions of dollars required to locate and produce natural gas — and then get it to you — we think you'll agree this premium fuel is worth every cent you pay for it . . . and then some!

Congressional Sidelights

Congressman Wm. M. Colmer

The Congress was all set to adjourn last week, when with hardly a moment's notice, the President sent a message, requesting that the present ceiling on the national debt be raised from 275 to 299 billion dollars.

There is, of course, nothing sacred about the present figure. In fact, in 1945, during the war, the ceiling was actually three hundred billion. But as a symbol, as a warning signal of our nearest approach to the brink of the precipice of national bankruptcy, the ceiling has great significance.

Last year we told the House: "It is obvious as the noonday sun that if we cannot balance the budget now, with an all time high national income of cheap money, together with an all-time high taxing program, the hope of ever balancing the Nation's budget is indeed dim. In fact, produce suggests that under such condition we should be retiring a part of our gargantuan debt, and fortifying our fiscal condition for the eventual rainy day . . .

"Now in order to attempt to get some conception of how long it will take us to retire the present national debt of over $260,000,000 let us assume we are frugal and prudent and start retiring that debt at the rate of $500,000,000 a year; 520 years would be required to retire the debt.

"It now requires more than six billion per annum in the form of interest to service this enormous debt . . . In other words, the interest alone on our national debt is costing the taxpayers now about one and one-half times as much as the total expenditures for one year as the total expenditures for 1 year of the Federal government in the period 1914-38 . . .

"The policy under the Fair Deal . . .

program, of everybody 'touching' the Federal Government has developed into the policy of the Federal Government touching everybody. Even the humblest citizen now realizes that the Federal Government is Santa Claus. In fact, we have reached the saturation point in taxation. With the tax rate as high as 90 percent in the upper brackets, the incentive for business to make money scarcely exists, while the day laborer and the middle class find it difficult to live under the high rate of their own taxes.

"America is at the cross-roads in its fiscal policy. If we do not check that policy we become a bankrupt people. If we destroy the faith and credit of Government, we lose everything, our economy, our standard of living, yes, even our cherished liberties.

"In the name of the founding fathers who gave the country its birth, in the name of the untold thousands who have died to preserve it, in the name of free people everywhere, I beseech you to save the nation from bankruptcy and thus perpetuate this, the most glorious form of free government ever conceived by the minds of men."

The two hundred and sixty billion dollar debt has now mounted to two hundred and seventy-three billion, and the President's request for an increase in the ceiling implies that it is bound to climb still higher because of the commitments already made. Certainly the request should make us all Stop, Look and Listen. It should be heeded as a warning of impending national bankruptcy. It is imperative that deficit spending stop.

While in fairness it should be pointed out that this Administration has cut appropriations some dozen billion dollars below the Truman budget, this Administration nevertheless is continuing much of the Truman program including billions of dollars for foreign aid. If the brakes are not applied, we will soon find ourselves in need of assistance from other countries. We wonder if they would be generous with us.

Hoping and Helping

Between 1939 and 1953 the country's supply of money and bank credit was increased from $64,700,000,000 to $195,000,000. Now that's a pile of money, and according to the economists it's largely responsible for the inflation we have "enjoyed" and also for the reduced purchasing power of our dollars.

Statistics are usually dull to most of us. For instance, when it is stated that the private debt in the United States is over $300,000,000,000 and the national debt is $274,000,000,000 these figures are beyond the comprehension of everybody except the biggest city bankers or the director of the U. S. budget.

However, it impresses all of us when we see it printed that the people in the United States have $121,000,000,000 deposited in banks in savings and drawing accounts and $124,000,000,000 in life insurance.

Never did this country owe so much to so many, and that is not a mere figure of speech. Where would our economy be if these millions of people had not sacrificed to save these billions?

We have leaned pretty much on government during the past twenty years. We have found the habit of letting someone else do our thinking and our planning for us. And we are all hoping everything will come out all right.

But it takes more than just hoping to keep the American dollar sound and the Republic prosperous. It takes helpers as well as hoppers.

The helpers who save money, who give a helping hand, who support a national leadership trying to guide us out of the mess we are in — they are the ones who are building the country's security.

If we really want individual freedom and free enterprise to survive, we must practice more self-reliance. If we want a sound economy, we as individuals must demand it. Nobody can build this nation above itself except us, "we the people," we the helpers and the hoppers. Only as we each carry our end of the load can the nation go forward, and can we be sure there is any security for the future.
